A YOUNG GIRL FOR THE LAST TEN DAYS HELD A PRISONER

Mother Accuses a Notorious Woman.

SHE GETS HABEAS CORPUS.

"QUEEN OF THE O'FALLON GANG" CHARGED BY MRS. HUTTON.

Her Fourteen-Year-Old Daughter, Annie, Detained in a North Ninth Street House—Girl Denies It and Says She's Married.

For ten days, according to a habeas corpus petition filed by her mother in the Circuit Court Monday morning, Annie Hutton, aged 14 years, has been held a prisoner in the third-story apartment of Delta McLean, who is the son of John Krudwig.

At first it was supposed that Annie had run away from home, and a complete search of the city was made for her. Nowhere could she be found.

Finally Mrs. Hutton was informed that her child had been kidnapped. She laughed at the suggestion.

Investigation confirmed the worst suspicions, and when she went to the house on North Ninth street was curiously told that she would never see the girl again.

"She does not want to live with you any more," said Krudwig. "Della, and I will take good care of her."

Delta McLean is one of the most notorious of St. Louis police characters.

Time and again she has been arrested for various offenses.

She has earned the sobriquet of "queen of the O'Fallon gang."

Her father was formerly a police sergeant. It is the knowledge of this woman's record, coupled with the fact that Krudwig bears an unsavory reputation, that caused Annie's mother such distress.

The habeas corpus writ was issued by Judge Fisher Monday noon and is made returnable Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Annie Hutton told the Post-Dispatch Monday noon that she was not being held a prisoner, that she was 16 years old, and had been married to Krudwig. She said she had left her home at 518 Cass avenue because she had been ill-treated.

FIRST HEAT VICTIM

Andrew Jennings Died as the Result of Sun-Stroke Monday Morning.

Andrew Jennings, 147 North Broadway, while trying to revive a horse that was overcome by heat at Seventeenth and Lucas avenue, and who was also prostrated with heat, died at the City Hospital Monday.

Jennings is the first one to die with heat-prostration this season in St. Louis.

DROWNED WITH SWEETHEART

Sad Ending of Three Young Lives in Southwest Missouri

Sunday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DE SOTO, Mo., June 16.—The bodies of Misses Ogle, Thomas Maness and Arthur Scott, the three young people of this city who were drowned at Morse's Mill yesterday, were brought to this city last night. Morse's Mill is quite a favorite pleasure resort for the young people.

Arthur Scott, 18, a young lad who was standing on the river bank and saw the accident, and as he threw off his coat and jumped into the water.

"If Anna drowns I'll go down with her," and just as he reached his sweetheart she and young Scott were attempting to swim ashore but gave out and both went down before help could reach them. Thomas Maness, who was 18, was swimming in the young lad who was standing on the river bank and saw the accident, and as he threw off his coat and jumped into the water.

"The Philippines derive their name from the Spanish King Philip, who was the enemy of liberty. We were held in thrall by the Spanish yoke for centuries, and now that we have practically attained our freedom we desire the friendship, the support and the direction of the United States.

"The Filipinos cannot establish and perpetuate an independent government.

"My mission to the United States at this time is to interest leading business interests in the possibilities of the trade offered.

Would Spend Money Here.

"Instead of buying $25,000,000 worth of merchandise from Europe, I would like to see the money spent over here."

"America is such a wonderful nation. In no country is there to be regarded as the greatest governmental power on earth.

Spain, 6000 years old, is such a contrast."

Gen. Buencamino expresses the belief that there will be further outbreaks in the Philippines.

When he reaches Washington he will hold a conference with the President on the Philippines. In referring to this, he said:

"I shall talk to the President just as I am talking now. I mean to tell the truth. It is to the interest of my country for me to do so. If I did not, I would deceive, not only America, but my own kin."

The surprise of a long war has told heavily upon them. They need a doctor. Are they going to miss their condition to be cured? Not at all. I wouldn't do it if I was physically ill and hoped to recover."

Road Problem

The general's name, translated, means "good roads." His name, he says, was changed by the Spanish from Magolindan, the name he had when he was born, and he still has the same meaning.

"I can't tell," he said, "just why I was so called." The Filipinos roads, at present, are not in very good condition. In fact, no attention has been paid to them during the last six years. No money has been spent on them, and there is no money in the treasury at the present time to do so.

"With the straitening out of our finances, which will follow soon upon the improvements now in progress, we hope to get at this work."

Gen. Buencamino was attired yesterday in a light gray suit, blue polka dot tie and white shirt, and presented the appearance of a very prosperous citizen. His wealth is estimated at $800,000.

His coat is swarthy, his eyes are deep, his almond eyes are large, but not protruding. He talks fluently, and is never, seemingly, at loss for a word.

His closest companion is the native cigarette, of which he smokes twenty or thirty a day. And the tobacco is not mild, either.

FILIPINO LEADER VISITS ST. LOUIS

Gen. Buencamino Delighted With the City.

WAS AGUINALDO'S SECRETARY

WHEN CAPTURED BY AMERICANS
HE EXPECTED DEATH TO FOLLOW.

He Is Now a Member of the Philippine Civil Service Board and Is in Sympathy With American Plans for Governing the Philippines.

"This weather reminds me of Manila," remarked Gen. Felipe Buencamino, the distinguished Filipino leader, as he sat in his apartment at the Planters Hotel yesterday afternoon and conversed with the Post-Dispatch on climatic conditions and kindred topics to relieve the strain of political thought occasioned by the many visitors who had called during the day.

"St. Louis," continued the general, "is a delightful place, and I like it so well that I have decided to remain three or four days.

The city seems so progressive, so hospitable and there is such a grand exemplification of American life that I could not help arriving at this conclusion.

Gen. Buencamino is a member of the Philippine Civil Service Board and former secretary of state under Aguinaldo's insurgent government. He is 54 years old.

In November, 1898, he was captured by the American troops with Aguinaldo's son and mother.

Expected Death to Follow Capture.

He expected to be shot. When the American general informed him that a contrary decision had been reached, he was delighted with the result.

He then began to investigate the American government, and was soon grounded in the belief that the hope of his people lay under the protection of the stars and stripes.

The wonder is that he has not broken down completely under the tremendous strain.

RAIN SPOILS REVIEW.

The King Was Represented by the Prince of Wales.

ALDERSHOT, England, June 16.—The indisposition of King Edward and the want of downy sleep compelled him to effectually spoil the grand review of troops here today. The King did not leave the royal pavilion and was represented by the Prince of Wales, who rode to the saluting point accompanied by the Duke of Connaught and a brilliant staff, comprising several members of the royal family, the Duke of York, the commander-in-chief, and the headquarters staff. Queen Alexandra drove to the park grounds in an open carriage with the Prince of Wales and the Prince of Victoria. In other carriages at the saluting point were the Duchess of Connaught and the Queen Mother, with who visiting England. More than 22,000 raiming troops marched past the heir to the throne.

The general showed a cablegram which he had received from Manila. It read: "Support Cooper bill, Albert."

The signature was that of Dr. Jose Alvarez, president of the Federal party.

Cooper Bill.

The Cooper bill, now before Congress, provides for a temporary government of the Philippine Islands, specifying that there shall be two branches of legislation to be known as the upper and lower house.

In the former the President of the United States shall select the members, while those of the lower house are to be elected by late members.

During Retirement He Has Become Successful Grain Speculator, but Is Still Labor's Friend.

Spotted to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 14.—Denis Kearney of "Sand lot" fame, the Franciscan made his first appearance as a street orator in 19 years last night at the corner of Market and Santa Clara streets.

The former leader of the agitation against the Chinese looked well and remarkably vigorous for a man of 60 years. His voice is not as powerful as in the more strenuous period of his life, but he has lost none of that peculiar directness of speech that formerly characterized his utterances.

"Way is it a horse works six hours a day and a man 12 hours?" Truly, the man was in the slacks and the horse in the driver's seat.

This was the most interesting speech of Denis Kearney in the 19 years since he contained some panache for the life of life.

He is now an operator in the wheat pit, and a capitalist who enjoys many of the good things of life.

He is a good speaker, and the people are willing to listen to him.

"This is the finest weather that ever happened—particularly for blushing brides and brave bridegrooms," said Dr. Hyatt, who was in reminiscent and sentimental mood Monday evening.

"I am heartily in favor of that measure," declared Gen. Buencamino. I would rather, though, that we be enrolled as American citizens.

THE RECENTLY MARRIED

Miss Susie Thompson at Church of the Redeemer.

Oliver K. Bovard, of 436A Olive street, city editor of the Post-Dispatch, and Miss Susie Thompson of 426 Olive street, will be married Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, 2015 Franklin. Col. John Sherwin, T. A. S. president of the Park National Bank; A. S. Ingalls, D. J. Collier, Morris Hayes and the Rev. Charles A. Trotman, rector of the church, will perform the ceremony.

Miss Thompson is a niece of Mrs. Susie Bovard. Only relatives will attend the ceremony.

Mr. Bovard and his bride will leave the city tonight for a trip to the Great Lakes.

After their return, they will make their home at 4649 Delmar avenue.

President Roosevelt is fortunate in being the President signing an irrigation bill.

The Coal Trust and the Meat Trust agree that we have the best tariff ever known.

Eating and heating are especially synonymous when the mercury is in the nineties.

Besides the reports from the volcanoes, we are getting some remarkable elephant stories.

American agricultural implement works are reported to be crowded with orders. This is a good sign for all the world.

The President rides a Missouri horse and he was not surprised when he read that a Missouri horse had won the St. Louis Derby.

The Roosevelt backbone is certainly in evidence now. The President has fearlessly pointed out to the Senate the plain duty of Congress.

A theater treasurer has nearly died from erysipelas contracted in handling money. There are probably, however, more cases of grip than erysipelas in handling money.

SLOW HAND BRAKES ON STREET CARS.

In two cases within the past week motormen have been seriously injured by collisions that resulted in the smashing of dashboards and front platforms of cars. In one case, the collision was with a locomotive and in the other with a car that had stopped a little distance ahead. In both instances power brakes might have averted the collision and prevented serious injury.

The hand brakes now on the cars are slow and uncertain. A brake that depends for action on the winding of a chain around an iron rod is a mechanical makeshift, unworthy of the modern inventor and mechanician. It is ineffective when placed on a heavy, swift-moving car such as the present day electric street car with its powerful motors and ponderous frame.

For the sake of the motormen, the passengers, and the pedestrians who are daily in peril in crossing street car tracks, the Board of Public Improvements is in duty bound to compel the carrying out of the brake law at the earliest possible moment, so that the present equipment of slow, ineffective and illegal brakes may be displaced for the best known life saving apparatus in the form of power brakes.

The granting of suffrage to women by Australia is the cause of much rejoicing among American women. There are more and more feminine voters as the years go by. No great evil seems to have followed woman suffrage anywhere.

LOUISIANA AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

A bill is pending in the Louisiana legislature appropriating $100,000 for a state exhibit at the World's Fair.

For sentimental and practical reasons, Louisiana ought to be well represented at the Fair.

It was in obtain the port of New Orleans and the adjacent territory that Jefferson began the negotiation that led to the cession of the entire Louisiana dominion. Historically, New Orleans is the center of interest in the great transaction and the State of Louisiana should be most conspicuous in celebrating the acquisition.

The prospect for favorable action on this bill is said to be very bright. The business men of New Orleans are working actively in behalf of the measure and sentiment throughout the state is alive and urgent.

Louisiana cannot afford to be behindhand in the centennial.

With Mrs. Astor paying $300 each for lectures on anarchy, religion, wealth, frivolity and women to be delivered to her guests in Paris, there will be much enlightenment for them. Society should seek instructive novelties all the time instead of fooling away its time on what is merely diverting.

KING EDWARDS LUMBAGO.

I would not be a king—enough
Of woe it is to love.

King Edward, which is very rough
When monarchs it doth bite.

Lumbago! If it had been appendicitis, golf shoulder or ping pong anko which kept His Majesty indoors, Edward might have borne it with equanimity; but lumbago! This is too much.

There is a bank president in New York who is said to be especially developed to take the place of J. P. Morgan. He should that great man be suddenly summoned to leave the earth, or, rather, his earth. It is a fact that a great man is to be had almost any time in the United States, and possibly there is another of the Morgan size.

CUBAN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The introduction of a sound and effective system of public education in Cuba, the work of the American military government, is the subject of a comprehensive article in the Atlantic Monthly.

When the American governor arrived, he found practically no work under way.

Out of a total population of 1,200,000 over ten years of age, there were 600,000 illiterates. The latest statistics that can be found are for 1893, two years before the outbreak of the revolution.
They show 35,000 children under instruction in 388 schools, but the Atlantic writer doubts whether these had any substantial existence. At any rate, the war broke up all the schools.

The new military government in the last days of 1899 provided that every city and town of over 500 inhabitants should have at least two public free schools, one for boys, one for girls, or one for both sexes. In a very short time 300 schools were established and four months after the law was promulgated 100,000 children were in attendance. There are now nearly 20,000 children in attendance, 800 teachers being employed. The instruction is "as good or better than is given in the average public school of the United States."

The system is well organized and well financed. Ample provision has been made for training teachers and erecting schoolhouses. And the Cubans themselves appreciate the advantages of the new order.

The new government will have to work out the schema. All the important positions in the school system, save one, have been occupied during the past two or three years by Cubans, who have proved their competence. If affairs do not fall into disorder, there is every reason to hope that the Cubans will pursue the lines laid down by the Americans and establish on a firm foundation a system of free public education equal to the best.

It seems that the ballot that executes the freeman's will in Vermont is often dropped into the box when the voter is too drunk to know what he is voting for. Really, an American citizen should be required to keep sober for the little time necessary to cast his vote.

PHELPS AND BUTLER.

The people of Missouri hear with keen regret that Col. Bill Phelps will not be in politics this summer.

With characteristic thoughtfulness, the colonel has arranged to have transportation facilities dispensed by another colonel, so that delegates to the St. Joseph and Springfield conventions need not be depressed.

Next winter, however, Col. Phelps will be with us again in politics. His business is usually in Jefferson City during the session of the legislature. "But," says Col. Phelps, "I hope that there will be no disposition to pass unreasonable legislation, so that it will not be necessary for me to spend much time there."

"Unreasonable legislation" means legislation designed to make franchised corporations pay their taxes, to restrain the power of trusts, to prevent the organization of predatory combines and otherwise to promote the public welfare. No legislation of this kind is reasonable. And Col. Phelps is a handy man when such measures are proposed. He knows how to show how unreasonable it is. And he is the greatest persuader ever seen in Jefferson City.

Also he is, next to Fee Fee Butler, the most impudent, bragging confessor of practices usually done under cover.
Col. Bill Phelps should have a talk with Col. Fee Fee Butler, who can tell him that silence is golden.

President Roosevelt is fortunate in being the President signing
an irrigation bill.

The Coal Trust and the Meat Trust agree that we have the best
tariff ever known.

Eating and heating are especially synonymous when the mercury is in the nineties.

Besides the reports from the volcanoes, we are getting some remarkable elephant stories.

American agricultural implement works are reported to be crowded with orders. This is a good sign for all the world.

The President rides a Missouri horse and he was not surprised when he read that a Missouri horse had won the St. Louis Derby.

The Roosevelt backbone is certainly in evidence now. The President has fearlessly pointed out to the Senate the plain duty
of Congress.

A theater treasurer has nearly died from erysipelas contracted
in handling money. There are probably, however, more cases of grip than erysipelas in handling money.

WHAT HAMLET LACKED.

When Hamlet said, "I lack the gall
To make oppression bitter."

He proved he wasn't what we call
A hard or heavy hitter.

In fact, he proved himself to be.
At pressing times, a quitter,
Deficient in strenuous.

What title could be fitter?

He hadn't heard about the views
Of our redundant Teddy.

Who on his feet to "put the screws"
Is ever strong and ready.

Though Ham, the Dane, was smart enough.

He wasn't firm and heady.
And couldn't make a decent bluff.

His hand was too unsteady.

If he had pounced upon the King,
Determined he would crush him.

And from his soul his secret wring,
Became a clumsy duffer.

In fact, he was incompetent—
A mushy sort of muffer:

His story had been different,
Had only he been rougher.

MISSOURI'S FLOATING ISLANDS.

If any Missourian has a good island in his possession, he will do well to fasten a hawser to it and lash it to the shore.

Nothing gives our fellow-citizens along the Missouri river more trouble than the erratic islands in that stream. They are worse than runaway cattle. Tonight a farmer goes to bed leaving an apparently peaceable and well-behaved island squatting snugly in the river in front of his farm, and tomorrow morning he finds it hugging the shore on the other side, 20 miles downstream. He takes it in stride. He calls it sweet and tender names, and offers it every inducement, including better treatment and less work, but all to no purpose. He promises to let it go visiting at night with the other islands in that section, if it will only come back home, but the pesky thing is obstinate, and will not listen to reason. He cannot drag it back by main force, so in desperation he leaves it, thinking it may return as soon as it gets over its petulant mood.

But in the meantime the State comes along sees this island running loose and erratic. First thing the farmer knows his entry property is sold and the island is turned over to the public school fund, and that is the last he sees of his bright little island.

The floating island described by mariners is usually a myth. The floating island of the Missouri river is a reality. Scores of them get away from their owners every year.
It seems to be impossible to tame them.

He Lost.

He went to see the Derby,
That very grand affair;

He bet on Terra Firma,
Then went up in the air.

Sibyl Sanderson's stepdaughter, Miss Terry, will wed Prince Gud de Faugnely-Lucigne. Still she may be happy though married to such a name.

Mrs. Helen Rathmore will lecture to a party of Mrs. Astor's Paris guests on "The Sin of Frivolity." This is carrying coal to Newcastle with a vengeance.

It is argued by some of the politicians that as the Declaration of Independence was suppressed in Tennessee when Evans was a candidate for governor, and in Kentucky when Taylor was a candidate, it should be suppressed in the Philippines. The truth is that the Declaration ought never to be suppressed anywhere.

A Hindoo maharajah has taken 20 tanks of Ganges water to England with him for the use of himself and his retainers. A great many Missourians who go abroad would be healthier if they were to take with them a supply of Mississippi water.

Among the summer surprises is the discovery, by actual measurement, that the feet of New York girls are larger than those of Chicago girls. Do the sea breezes do differ from the lake breezes as to produce this extraordinary development?

The sympathy felt in London for the American woman who broke down after having been fitted with a mismatched series of Paris gowns is a touching evidence of the tender feeling that has grown up between two great peoples.

No Cuban or Filipino civil war could possibly equal the great struggle of the '90s in the United States. The probability of civil war in the Philippines or in Cuba is no good reason why they should not be independent.

We learn from a Pennsylvania political platform that the Philippine war is ended. This is, perhaps, another leak from the war department.

Expansion by war will always be criminal aggression, even though it should be approved by the people of every country on earth.

The President knows what is right in dealing with the Cubans, but he must have his party's support if he is not to be crowded out by Uncle Mark Hanna.

If Betty Vanini at 88 is as gay and active as a woman of 40, when can a man feel safe?

ST. LOUIS' GROWTH IS PHENOMENAL

Development as a Great Financial Center.

A REVIEW OF OUR PROGRESS.

THE MANUFACTURERS' RECORD POINTS OUT GENERAL PROSPERITY.

In Ten Years St. Louis Duplicate the Tremendous Advance Made by Chicago Between 1870 and 1880.

The Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore, in its current issue, devotes considerable space to a review of the development of St. Louis as a financial center.

"St. Louis," says the Record, "is prepared to put through a $10,000,000 deal just as readily as for the few thousands, and St. Louis people are doing this work so constantly and so much as a matter of course that it is impossible to enumerate all their achievements."

St. Louis Is Never in Debt.

As an illustration of the growth of financial institutions, the fact is pointed out that in January, 1891, two years ago, the city had only five trust companies, with aggregate resources of $50,168,340.

Now the city has nine trust companies, the aggregate of which totals up $101,520,000. The last month has shown a still larger growth in the last 18 months. January, 1891, the trust resources were $156,688,408. Now they are $200,000,000.

"And it is true," says the Record, "that half of the securities are taken by local firms, and that St. Louis has developed a remarkable capacity for absorbing stocks and bonds. The reason lies between the tide of general prosperity, and the fact that the more rapid and profitable employment of capital have been created by St. Louis' financial institutions.

The city has not been in debt, and when times are good prosperity showers a flood of gold upon her."

In regard to the stability of local prosperity the Record's attention to enormous business this city is doing in ships, hardware, furniture, dry goods and clothing, and in many instances of all varieties, many of which find a greater market here than elsewhere in America.

And the number of small merchants, hundreds of small founders and some that are not so small. Witness the case of the first millionaire, not long since deceased, who died a merchant, not long particularly rich, and yet whose estate, when it came to be divided among his astonished heirs, was found to foot up $20,000,000.

Greater Growth Is Predicted.

The Record says that a most significant demonstration of the favor in which St. Louis is held by moneyed men abroad was given recently when James J. Hill, the present biggest one-man power in the railroad world, George F. Baker, the friend and associate of J. Pierpont Morgan; J. Ogden, of the Standard Oil Company; the Armour Packing Co. and J. Weyerhaeuser, reputed to be the largest lumber and timber owner in the world, identified themselves with the First National Bank of St. Louis. Charles H. Huting, president of this bank, is highly complimented.

Referring to the wonderful growth of the National Bank of Commerce, which now shows a capital and surplus of $10,000,000, and $100,000,000 in deposits, J. C. Van Barcom, vice president, is quoted as saying:

"What St. Louis will be 10 years from now, no one dare say. I believe it will be beyond the expectations of the wildest enthusiast of today. I believe we will see here a city that will be the equal of New York."

The Record refers to the numerous great deals of money by the various trust companies, and particularly the Standard, which Mississippi Valley Trust recently furnished the Mexican Central, the Tennessee Central, both owned by the First National.

The Mississippi Valley Trust has resources amounting to $3,404,462. The St. Louis Union Trust Co. extends this amount, and the Mercantile, Lincoln, Commonwealth and other companies are referred to as Gibraltars in the financial world.

Like a Snowball Gaining in Size.

Geo. F. Parker, treasurer of the Scarritt Furniture Co., said:

"Like a snowball, as it rolls along, it gains in size, so will St. Louis. Our city is attracting attention from all directions as an advantageous point, the furniture manufacturing interests, with which I am most familiar, have brought many new inquirers to the city in search of openings, the fact that we are the nearest large city to the hardwood lumber region is the important factor, coupled with our location."

"Several entirely new enterprises have come into existence since the first of the year, and the other new business arrangements. Not a factory in the city but what has either enlarged its plant or increased its output by adding improved machinery."

"The estimate of the furniture and kind of money about $100,000,000 that is included, cotton, bedding, restaurants, furniture, clothing, etc., which manufactures go to complete the stock carried by the city."

"More capital is now employed than ever before in our factories, the estimate being about $200,000,000, the factories which have employed upward of $100,000,000 have received approximately $35,750,000 for their services."

"Prices have advanced, this having become necessary by reason of the increased cost of raw materials, principally good cabinetry, furniture, etc., which has brought about an advance early in the year."

"Better and more artistic styles are now required to suit the demands of the trade, as well as superior class workmanship; these features all tend to a higher cost."

Example of Our Prosperity.

There have been completed many expensive residences in the city which have required furnishing, as well as the repainting in a modern way many of the old ones. New hotels, trust companies, banks, office buildings, educational and public institutions have added a large quota to the general prosperity.

In the general prosperity of the West and South, the building of churches, schools, opera houses and buildings of a public character have become the rule, nearly all communities.

A number of the most enterprising of the factories have placed samples of their product in the exposition rooms of eastern cities. This has resulted in a review of the eastern public and a general exposition effort, and now the ground has been broken, and the new building has been commenced. This will result in bringing much trade to St. Louis.

ANOTHER ADVANCE IN COAL AND COKE

GENERAL APATHY RULED THE MARKET

STOCK SOLD UP TO $68.50 AT FIRST CALL TODAY.

TRACTIONS WORKED LOWER

Better Demand for United Railways Preferred Is Ascribed to the Coming Dividend Payment on It.

Reported daily by the Wasserman-Rosenberg Bond and Stock Co., St. Louis. The Coal and Coke stock market was the focus of the first session of the St. Louis Stock Exchange, Monday. The price for the ordinary shares of the Kansas City corporation were lifted to $61.50 almost at the opening, and 50 shares were brought out at this gain of $1.25 over Saturday.

A short while later regular bidding commenced and under that stimulus the market was moved up to $62.50, at which figure another 50 shares were taken, and small lots offered there before the close.

Barring the security just mentioned, there was little or no interest in the industrial development of Commercial Building Co. stock at $62, the intending buyer offering to pay a dividend of 10 cents.

Some demand also existed for Bell Telephone of Missouri stock at $16, a slight advance on the former day.

"The First Car of 1902 Wheat From Indian Territory Sells for Grinding at Auction for Twenty-Five Cents."

CORN GAINED ONE-FOURTH CENT ON THE DAY.

WHEAT ALSO MAKES A GAIN

The First Car of 1902 Wheat From Indian Territory Sells for Grinding at Auction for Twenty-Five Cents.

The future markets had barely enough life in them to keep from utter stagnation. There was little to induce trading. The influence of good harvesting news in this country was offset by higher cables and the report that France was buying wheat in Chicago.

The feature in corn was higher cables and favorable reports of the growing crop in Texas.

July wheat opened at $60.40 from the close of Saturday, and closed at $60.80, having ranged from $60.30 to $60.80. Saturday's close was bearish, but the market was still in general becoming quite favorable, owing to the advantageous position of the company, its distributing and transportation facilities.
